Level: Difficult

2. Discuss the importance of the role of Federalism in modern policing.

Key Points: Federalism components to include division of power between central body and constituents; leftover powers left to the states; cooperative fluctuations between state/federal bodies. Discussion on policing should reflect on who the federal division of power impacts decisions that affect policing at local levels.

Objective: Explain how the U.S. government's features of democracy and federalism impact policing.

Essay:

1. Crude forms of policing. Apprehend runaway slaves. Deliver justice “on the spot.” Ensure slaves did not rise up against their owners.
2. Late 19th and early 20th Centuries. Regulate crime based on wishes of corrupt politicians. Police were hand-picked by corrupt politicians. Served politicians rather than control crime in the interests of the public good.
3. US Marshals, Postal Inspectors, Secret Service, FBI. Apprehending counterfeiters, fugitives. Protection of the President. Investigation of federal crimes. J. Edgar Hoover.

Critical Thinking:

1. To understand contemporary structure of policing in the US today. To avoid history repeating itself. To compare with other police systems around the world. To monitor the continuing evolution of policing in the US.
2. Not enough border patrol agents. Massive influx of illegal immigrants. US-Mexico border tensions. Minutemen Project/Minutemen Civil Defense Corps. Vigilance/vigilante groups.

Essay:

- 1. Federalism: division of power between federal/state; cooperation between federal/state; division of law enforcement by federal/state levels; tensions between agencies. Democracy: Equal rights, privileges; open government; due process; concern for rights means crime inevitable; must answer to the people regardless; Constitutional requirements for police to meet.
- 2. Should be able to identify 3-5 of the 11 actual pillars and equate them to the role/function of police.
- 3. Should identify one of the major police organizations and discuss the professional association/relationship, information control, membership/camaraderie, advocacy, lobbying, control-seeking behavior.

Critical Thinking:

1. Should identify some governing or environmental influence such as the community, the media, the public, the state, the courts, etc. For governing body that is selected, should identify key components of accountability police have to answer to. Discussion should include personal reflection of why they have chosen that governing body.
2. Federalism components to include division of power between central body and constituents; leftover powers left to the states; cooperative fluctuations between state/federal bodies. Discussion on policing should reflect on who the federal division of power impacts decisions that affect policing at local levels.
